

Fall 1998-Fall 2001 Victoria College Classroom Utilization Report

*Office of Institutional Research & Planning
September 17, 2001*

The attached report portrays Victoria College/Victoria campus classroom utilization. College-wide and building specific classroom use charts and tables are included. Also included is a list of College buildings and specific classrooms by type used in this analysis.

Classroom utilization is defined as the number of classes/sections scheduled and the number of classrooms regularly used by students for assignments and special projects divided by the number of classrooms available by time of day - (classes scheduled and classrooms used)/(classrooms available).

For example, the following rooms are counted as 100% utilized when classes are not scheduled:

- All Computer labs across the campus are used as open labs by students
- Fine Arts Building special purpose music and art rooms are used for private music lessons, by art students working on assignments, and by community groups for various rehearsals
- Sports Center facilities are used by faculty, staff, students, and various community groups
- Wood Building and Allied Health labs are used by students for assignments, group study, and projects
